Dr. Corrington L. Alford the author of this book died suddenly on Wed. eve. At 7 o'clock Oct 7. 1908. A blood vessel busted in his head, was rational for a short time, then collapsed in unconsciousness struggling for 2 hrs. when death occurred(sic).

Section Tenth
 South Lands

In commenting upon this section of the Alford Genealogical Tree - there were so many uncomplete statements in the records sent me, that it will be impossible to give a correct history and will require a great deal of guess work in connecting family lineal records - which may be true and may not. But will leave it to the Alford's descendants to more fully clear up their family records. I will give what facts have been furnished me by many of the descendants.

Again the traditions of the three brothers appears among some of the family records of the North Carolina Alfords, which should be taken under due consideration. North Carolina and South Carolina separated about the year 1720 - previous to 1717 Carolina had been a proprietary government - but in that year became Royal, one by purchase and continued such until the Revolutionary War. The Provincial Congress met April 1775 and North Carolina was the first of the American Provinces to renounce her allegiance to the English Crown - Declaration of Independence ratified Aug. 1, 1776. The Secession Ordinance passed May 20, 1861 and April 28, 1865, proclamation by Gov. Vance that the Civil War was ended and North Carolina was restored to the Union 1868. In this Civil War most all of the valuable Family Records and history of the North Carolina Alfords were destroyed and by this or through neglect unable to secure a complete history. In the 9th volume of Saunders Colonial Records the name of James Alford and Loderwick Alford appears the subject of some beneficial legislation and by the Colonial Assembly some money was consumed in a dwelling belonging to one of these and the court was ordered to pay him by Act of the Assembly.

Now take Section Second, Page 17 (original page number), The History of William Alford and his seventh child, Col. Benjamin Alford and his son James Alford born in Boston, Massachusetts, July 19, 1691. You will find his record not complete, who was in the mercantile business with his brother, Hon. John Alford in 1715 he was at that time 24 years of age. At the death of his brother Hon. John Alford in 1761 no mention is made of his brother James Alford, who if then living would have been 70 years old, by past events and this in all probability dissolved partnership and gone out of the mercantile business many years previous and that James Alford left Boston, Massachusetts and settled in Raleigh, Wake County, North Carolina. And is said that James Alford was very wealthy and owned much property and landed estate.

Now it appears that he had two or more sons and all probability a large family, children, which records could not be found. The names of them given are Capt. James William Zion Alford and Major Loderwick Alford. It appears that the settlement of the Alfords were first in Raleigh, Wake County, North Carolina and was some great many years prior to the Revolutionary War and many of the Alfords were born in this county and emigrated to other counties and states from there.

From one of the descendants - remarks were - they were mostly all large and tall men, blue eyes, very fair complexion or fair skin, dark and chestnut colored, curly hair and men of endurance and great strength. They were 6 feet to 6 feet, 4 inches and 6 feet, 6 inches in height and in weight 175 lbs., 240 lbs. and 265 lbs. and in their pursuits in life were greatly distinguished. Some claim English descent and some say Wales in Great Britain and they had eventually settled in Wake County, North Carolina. In my collection I have many photographs of the Alfords and find resemblances remarkable. In one case I sent my photographs to a North Carolina Alford and he showed it to some of his friends. They said why that is your father, Dr. Alford. He told them not and who it was, then certainly it must be his twin brother for the picture looks just like him. I give this only for illustration. All the Alfords I have seen are very fair complexion. The first in line of Family Record is of a son of James Alford who was born July 19, 1691, was a son named

Captain James William Zion Alford

He was in all probability born in Boston, Massachusetts about the year 1725. He was in the Revolutionary War - and with the forces in the Battles at Cowpens and Guilford Courthouse and was identified throughout the War for Independence. It is said he married Miss Judy Harper of Harper's Ferry, noted family between the years of 1755 and 1760 and by some of the Alfords claim had twenty-one children - some claim thirteen sons and others seven sons and daughters - how true this is is not known. But we have records which are supposed to be his children but no conclusive evidence but will give their records as we have received them but not in line of record. Their names are as follows:

Jacob Alford, Anson Alford, Gutridge Alford, Kinchen Alford, Loderwick Alford, Samuel Alford, Warren Alford, Zion Alford, Seth Alford, James Alford, Zadock Alford, Cullen C. Alford and Jules C. Alford. The names of daughters not given. Captain James William Zion Alford and his wife, Judy Alford, died in Wake County, North Carolina. They all live in Baltimore, Maryland or Walbrook, Clifton Avenue, Baltimore, Maryland. We were unable to secure dates of birth and place of birth or marriage.

This completes the Family Record of Elizabeth A. Alford Miles.

The next in line of record is of the sixth son of Capt. James and Judy Alford.

In the following name series of the descendants claim the name was spelled "Ludwig" but the original name given in records was Loderwick and some descendants give it that way and so will unto the name as follows

Colonel Loderwick P. Alford

He was born in Wake County, North Carolina, about the year 1812 and died in 1897 in his 85th year. He was married to whom not known and had a large family. In tracing up his history some said he went further south whilst others said he moved to Texas.

Since writing the above we received a letter from our cousin Col. George F. Alford in which he states the following:

“Col. Loderwick P. Alford of Marshall, Texas, who died in 1897 was of a very extensive and wealthy family. One of his sons is a Clerk of the Court at Marshall, Texas. A daughter, named Miss Pet Alford, married a merchant at Texarkana - name not known. A son was killed at San Antonio, Texas, by Jack E. Labott in a personal encounter. There was numerous other children I do not know. After the Civil War - there was a colored Regiment officered by a low, degraded, unprincipled white man - who got drunk and destroyed the beautiful Courthouse and city buildings of Jefferson City - a city of ten thousand inhabitants at that time. It so maddened the citizens that a public meeting was called and addressed by Col. Loderwick P. Alford, in an elegant appeal. So a number of the leading citizens determined to wreak a summary punishment upon the cowardly and brutal man who was in the uniform of an American soldier who had sought the Sheriff of the county - begged to be locked up in the County Jail for safety. They were taken from the jail and all hanged. The colored men scattered to the dense forest of the woods in Bayou bottoms and were not molested by the white citizens. Gen. Philip Sheridan, then of New Orleans, who was Commandant of the Department of the Gulf, immediately dispatched several regiments to the city, who arrested Col. L. P. Alford and a dozen more citizens - lawyers - doctors - bankers - merchants and ministers, etc., and a summary Court Martial sentenced them to be shot. An appeal was taken to President Andrew Johnson, who commuted the punished for life imprisonment. On the accession to the Presidency of Gen. U.S. Grant, Gen. Sam Bill Maxey and Gen. James W. Throckmorton, presented the facts to President Grant, who issued an unconditional pardon and indignantly stated, ‘Those patriotic citizens did exactly and worthy of that name’.

This completes the record of Col. Ludwick or Loderwick P. Alford as far as known.

The next in line of record is of a grandson of

Gutridge Alford

Who was a son of Capt. James Alford - whose family record could not be obtained and who the father's name was of Littleburg Alford was is not known. They claim he was the grandson of Gutridge Alford and his name was

Littleburg Alford

He was born in Franklin County, North Carolina, Mar. 8, 1808 and was by occupation a planter and farmer. He died in Franklin County, North Carolina, March, 1878, in his 70th year. He was married twice. His first wife's name was Miss Elizabeth Moore - and some time after her death he married Miss Everline Lewis. The family record sent us gave the names of only two children.

The eldest child was a son who was named

James Howard Alford - he was born in Franklin County, North Carolina, May 17, 1835. He is by occupation a merchant and planter. He married Mis Susan Balkans, Aug. 7, 1855. She died April 2, 1897, no family record sent. He resides in Raleigh N.C. This recd(sic) received from him June 10 1898

Their second child was a son who was named

Monroe Alford - he was born in Franklin County, North Carolina, about the year 1837 - no other record.

This completes the Family Record of Littleburg and Eveline Alford.

The next following record is believed was a son of Warren Alford but not certainly known - as Warren Alford's death appears to be near Raleigh, North Carolina, where he had previously settled. The name of the son was

Drewry Alford

He was born in Wake County, North Carolina, date of birth not given but around 1770. He was by occupation a planter and farmer. He died near Raleigh, North Carolina, 1839. He married Miss Arpy Hunt about the year 1795. She died at Raleigh, North Carolina, 1839. They had eight children.

Their eldest child was a son who was named

Lockhart Alford - he was born in Wake County, North Carolina, about 1796 - no other record.

Their second child was a son who was named

Onir Alford - he was born in Wake County, North Carolina, about the year 1798 - no other record.

Their third child was a daughter who was named

Sallie Alford(Williams) - she was born in Wake County, North Carolina, about the year 1800. She married Mr. Jack Williams - no other record.

Their fourth child was a son who was named

Loderwick Alford - see next record.

Their fifth child was a daughter who was named

Polly Alford - she was born in Wake County, North Carolina, about the year 1804 - no other record.

Their sixth child was a son who was named

Cade Alford - he was born in Wake County, North Carolina, about the year 1806 - no other record.

Their seventh child was a daughter who was named

Patsey Alford(Perry) - she was born in Wake County, North Carolina, about 1808. She married Mr. Abram Perry - no other record.

Their eighth child was a daughter who was named

Willma Alford(Johnson) - she was born in Wake County, North Carolina, about the year 1810. She married Mr. William Johnson.

This completes the Family Record of Drewry and Arpy Alford.

The next in line of record is of this fourth child who was a son and named

Loderwick Alford

He was born in Wake County, North Carolina, May 30, 1802. He was by occupation a merchant and planter. He died April 25, 1877 in Hart County, Georgia in his 75th year. He married Miss Alsey Simps. She was born Aug. 19, 1821 and is still living at Hartwell, Hart County, Georgia, Jan. 31, 1898. There is five children living. They had more children but names not given.

Their eldest child was a son who was named

Drewry Cade Alford - see next record.

Their second child was a son who was named

James B. Alford - he was born probably in Anderson County, South Carolina, about the year 1858 - and living - but no record of birth or place of birth or residence given.

Their third child was a son who was named

Davis B. Alford - he was probably born in Hartwell, Hart County, Georgia, about the year 1860. He is living but no record of birth place or birth or residence given.

Their fourth child was a daughter who was named

Sally Alford(Dickerson) - she was in all probability born in Hartwell, Hart County, Georgia, 1862 or 4 - as birth date not given. She married Mr. E. R. Dickerson of Clandville, Mississippi and probably resides there.

Their fifth child was a daughter who was named

Emma Alford(Garly) - she was born n Hartwell, Georgia, about the year 1864 or 6. She married Mr. W. R. Garly of Oak Bower, Hart County, Georgia and probably resides there.

This completes the Family Record of Loderwick and Alsey Alford.

The next in line of record is of their first son who was named

Drewry Cade Alford

He was born in Anderson County, South Carolina, Feb. 12, 1856. He is by occupation a merchant and resides at Hartwell, Hart County, Georgia - as no family record was sent us and only a record from a newspaper of his father and himself which is as follows:

'Lodwick Alford was born in Wake County, North Carolina, 1802 and did business in Columbus, Georgia in 1836 and 1837. He moved back to South Carolina and married in 1840. He moved to Anderson County, South Carolina in 1844 and engaged in farming until 1857, when he moved to Hart County, Georgia. In 1858 he was engaged in the grocery business in Hartwell, Georgia and in 1859 he settled what is termed "The Old Homestead", known as the "Alford Oak Bower" and still continued in the mercantile business in Hartwell up to the time of his death in 1877. He was a man of high character and commanded the respect of all. Leaving a large family and the adversities of the Civil War caused his son, Drewry Cade Alford to commence life's battle with very limited capital. He entered the mercantile business at Oak Bower at his father's old house in 1876 and continued up to 1879. At this time he became bookkeeper for Edward Shafer in Hartwell, which position he held up to 1882. After the death of W. J. Snow who was Mr Shafers business manager Mr. D C Alford was given the position made vacant and this position he held until Mr. Shafer discontinued business in 1886. A new firm took up the business. The names composed of this firm were R. P. Bradley and D. C. Alford, known as Bradley & Alford. The firm was dissolved by mutual consent 1892 and Mr. D. C. Alford continued the business until 1895, when others were associated with him in business. Mr. D. C. Alford had sustained heavy loss by fire but when the ruins of his old warehouse and storehouse were cleared away he has erected a handsome row of brick warehouses and storehouses - which are all occupied and besides Mr. D. C. Alford has recently completed one of the most elegant residences in the place. D. C. Alford is full of enterprise and public spirit and is always to the front in any measure that will help build up Hartwell and he is the largest tax-payer of the place and Chairman of the Democratic Party of Hart County and Director of the Hartwell Bank.'

This completes all the Family Record of D. C. Alford able to secure.

The next in line of record may be a brother or relative, who was named

A. N. Alford

Which is in the same paper of which we copy the following:

'A. N. Alford, General Merchant, was born in Hart County, Georgia and passed his early boyhood on his father's farm. He began his business career as a clerk in Hartwell and taught school at intervals, until 1886 when he embarked in business on his own hook, with the princely capital of fifty dollars. By industry and financial ability he has prospered and now carries a stock of eight thousand dollars. He has moved into his present large and handsome storeroom and is worth in round numbers not a cent less than twenty thousand dollars - which has been his merited success in business.'

This was all the records we were able to secure of the Hartwell Hart Co. Georgia Alford's.

In a letter from D. C. Alford, who says, 'My grandfather, Drewry Alford, was English or an Englishman. My father was Loderwick Alford, who was born in Wake County, North Carolina, May 30, 1802 and died in Hart County, Georgia, April 25, 1877. My name is Drewry Cade Alford, was born in Anderson County, South Carolina, Feb. 12, 1856 and I have two brothers living, James B. Alford and Davis B. Alford, also two sisters, Sallie and Emma Alford. Sallie is now Mrs. E. R. Dickerson of Claudville, Mississippi and Emma is Mrs. E. R. Garley of Oak Bower, Hark County, Georgia. My mother's maiden name was Alsey Simps of North Carolina. She was born Aug. 19, 1821 and still living at Hartwell, Hark County, Georgia, Jan. 31, 1898.'

By this the relative link may not be as we have classified there. Again in taking up the next lead record, will give an extract from a letter received Mar. 3, 1898, from an Alford, who says, "My great-great-great-grandfather was Major Loderwick Alford. He came from Wales in Great Britain and lived in Wake or Franklin County, North Carolina. It is said he was married three times and had twenty-one children, one of them, Jacob, came to Robinson County some time in 1750 to 1760, do not know the date, but was here before the time of the Revolutionary War." This problem hard to solve - if above is correct. There must have been another Major Loderwick Alford and record we have not obtained for this reason. The record sent me states that Major Loderwick Alford was born May 30, 1768 and James Alford (pt?) was born July 19, 1691 and that Capt. James William Zion Alford was born about the year 1720 or 5 and the first Jacob Alford was born about the year 1730 or near that or prior to it or 1725. For his oldest son, James Alford, was the founder of Alfordsville,

Robinson County, North Carolina and his brother Major Zion Alford, who was called the 'Fighting Farmer' in the Second Revolutionary War in 1812 - probably born 1785 and his brother 1783, and all the records claim Wake County, North Carolina their birth place except first Jacob and will leave this problem for the North Carolina Alford's to solve.

The next in line of record is

Jacob Alford

Some say he was born in Wake County, North Carolina and others say he came to Robinson County, North Carolina, which both statements may be true and probably a brother to Loderwick Alford than a son or son of Loderwick, brother of Capt. James William Zion Alford as no record of the date of his birth or date of his death are given. He was by occupation a planter and farmer. He married Miss Pace. He died at Alfordsville, Robinson County, North Carolina and probably one of the first settlers and one who was chiefly identified with the Town of Alfordsville. They had eight children.

Their first child was a son who was named

James Alford - see next record.

Their second child was a son who was named

Major Zion Alford - he was born in Wake County, North Carolina - date not given.

Their third child was a son who was named

Wildy Alford - see second record.

Their fourth child was a son who was named

Ansel Alford - he was born in Wake County, North Carolina - date not given. It is not known where he settled but supposed Virginia as no further record was given. Note: "This may be the great-great grandfather of Hon. M. C. Alford of Lexington, Kentucky" a letter dated Dec. 26, 1897 says, "My life has been to(sic) busy one to look up my family history. I have began to search for the old family Bible and have secured a trace of it - my father's name was Cary Fry Alford. My grandfather's name was Nathaniel Alford my great-great grandfathers names Jessie or Ansel Alford."

Their fifth child was a son who was named

Elias Alford - he was born in Wake County, North Carolina, no date given. He was a planter and farmer by occupation. He married Miss Hedgepeth and they moved to South Carolina, where he died - no further record given.
