

Section Third

As we have placed the "Alford History" in "sections" - will return and give listing of Sargent(sic) Benedictus Alford, one of the "Three Brothers". As we have given William Alford's family history as far as known.

It will be necessary for us to return to the listing of this Second brother and to make a comprehensive review - so it can fully be understood by the present descendants of the Alford's. In the first place to fully comprehend the early settlements in America, we will take the City of Boston Massachusetts as a starting point. By a direct line from this point - would not more than exceed forty miles to Providence and from Providence to Hartford, Connecticut. Sixty-five miles and from Boston, Massachusetts to Hartford, Connecticut, one hundred miles and to Narragansett Bay, sixty-five miles from Plymouth to Providence, forty miles. This you can as easily comprehend that the longest distance would not exceed five days travel by foot - and not exceed the distance from Logansport to Chicago in a direct line of travel.

We will now the time of the first permanent settlements of New England as Plymouth was settled first 1620 and as the Colonies thrived and settlers went through the adjoining territory. Thus towns were not only planted in what composes the present state of Massachusetts but the passed over into the states of Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Maine and Vermont. As in the case of Mrs. Ann Hutchinson who was expelled from Massachusetts, she and large number of her followers next to go southward beyond the boundaries of New England. But though the banished Rev. Roger Williams persuaded them to stop at Aquetuck, now Rhode Island - the largest island in Narragansett Bay. Nineteen persons settled there and William Coddington was chosen the first Judge.

As William Alford was disarmed by the General Court and as he and family and friends settled at New Haven, Connecticut, so he and friends being banished as Baptists on the Anteriorian(?) Doctrine.

The New Haven Colony began at about the same time as Rhode Island. Its leaders were Rev. John Davenport, a Puritan Minister and Theophalas Eaton, a London merchant. They believed a model state could be founded on the Scriptural rules and the attempt was made. These settlers were mostly London tradesmen. And their lands were obtained from the Indians whom they found in possession. Starting with only a hundred people the increase was so rapid that in a few years that Milford Guilford - Stanford and Greenwich sprang up on the shores of Long Island Sound.

In October 1636, the General Court of Boston voted to give four hundred permits toward a place of superior tuition. This being the first time the representatives of the people in this country desired to expend their own money in form of an educational institution. Rev. John Harvard left half of his estate, about eight hundred pounds - in those days a large sum - for the erection of a building at Newton, which was previously settled by the Newtons - afterwards called Cambridge - three miles from Boston. He died shortly after and the Court in 1639 ordered the college to be named after him, 'Harvard'. There was a printing press attached to the college and was the only one and first one in North America and that for many years after. He also bequeathed a large library. And this was at the period when the Pequot War was raging with Massachusetts took a part and when she was distracted by the Anteriorian Controversy.

It was not long before this that Rev. Roger Williams and his few forces had established themselves at Providence and by his zealous endeavor he saved the Narragansett Scheme from joining the Pequots. The Pequots were among the most courageous warriors in New England and their hatred to the white settlers was great and desire was to exterminate them - from the Colonies. In a measure they did not succeed in securing the help of Mohican Indians to join them. The Rev. Roger Williams (the banished) sent suggestions to Governor Winthrop and their value was beyond estimate to the cause of colonization of America. The Pequots carried on their hostilities alone against the white settlers - instead by open attack but by stalking in ambush they cut off the stragglers - burnt and destroyed cabins and shot down men at work and prisoners were taken captive and tortured to death. And by the middle of winter 1636 they had slain over thirty people and they became so bold that they assailed the little town of Waterford, killing a few and nearly capturing the town. The Pequots fully a thousand men on the war path.

Connecticut saw she was in danger of extermination and she begged of Massachusetts and Plymouth to come to her help. Ninety soldiers were sent without delay. They were under the command of Captain Mason and was joined by Captain Underhill, who was in command of the Connecticut troops. The night before leaving Hartford was spent entirely in prayer. Captain Mason wisely insisted in pursuing their campaign to attack the Pequots on the western side of their stronghold and position, which was readily accepted and on the evening of May 20, 1636 entered the Narragansett Bay in three small vessels - as a storm followed they did not land until the evening of the 23rd of May 1636. Captain Mason understanding the enormous difficulties of the work before him - obtained the help of two hundred of the Narragansett warriors. These, like the Mohican Indian warriors proved more of an encumbrance than help. The next day a number of Nantser Indians joined them and they then began their march towards the Pequot's encampment or stronghold.

The Indian allies lost courage and disappeared. It lacked two hours of sunrise - the moon shone brightly on the 26 of May 1636. As Captain Mason sprang through the bushes and openings and opened up the fight singlehanded and Captain Underhill at the other entrance interpreted the sound and led his men to the assault. The Pequot was fierce and the slaughter was fearful and the loss to the Pequots was more than a thousand. The Pequots, although not destroyed in a day - but in 1636 and 1637 were soon blotted out from the earth and long and complete peace reigned between the Indians and New England Colonies.

We give briefly this history of that period as we think clears up much of the early Alford History. For Sargent Benedictus Alford was a Sargent in one of those companies during the Pequot War in 1636 and 1637. As in those times he belonged to the Militia at that period as did his elder brother, William Alford.

Again Sargent Benedict Alford and his younger brother Alexander Alford settled at Windsor, Hartford County, Connecticut and Alexander Alford married Miss Mary Rose, Oct. 29, 1646. She was a daughter of one of the first settlers of Boston, Massachusetts. They had seven children whose names were Abigail - John - Mary - Thomas - Elizabeth - Benjamin. These children were born in Windsor, Connecticut. In 1659 Alexander Alford moved and settled at South Hampton, Massachusetts and their youngest child, a daughter, was born, named Sarah Alford at South Hampton, Hampshire County, Massachusetts, June 24, 1660.

Now, William Alford - Benedictus Alford and Alexander Alford were the "Three Brothers" so after mentioned in family records received. And the first - Alford settlers in America - given in ancient records and called "emigrants". They were in England men of the mercantile business trade and were born in London, Middlesex County, England and came to this country on the years of 1634 and 1636. Fourteen years after the first Colony settlements William Alford was married in England, London, and Benedictus Alford and Alexander Alford were married in America. This finished the Family Records of Jonathan, Jeremiah, Jeremiah, Benedictus, his 5 sons.

The next in line of record is

Benedict Alford, Benedict, Jermiah, Benedicuts

Was the son of Benedict Alford, Sr. and was born at Windsor, Hartford County, Connecticut, Aug. 29, 1716. It is claimed by many family records of descendants that Col. Benedict Alford was endowed with great strength, a forceful, powerful man. That he was trained in woodcraft, a hunter, a scout and Indian Trailer - and was in the French and Indian War of 1754 & 5 and was with his son during the Revolutionary War. And especially with his favorite son, Capt. George Alford, who was in the Revolutionary War and the War of 1812 & 14. They were greatly noted for their bravery, strength and endurance. It is again stated in family records that Col. Benedict Alford lived to advanced age of 97 or 99 years and his wife to 95 years. If this is the case - Col. Benedict Alford died in 1809 or 1811 and his wife 1833. And where they died is not certainly known as they had left Windsor, Connecticut abut 1772 or 4. It is again stated that Cap. George Alford was his favorite son and George settled in York State and was with them during campaign his scouting - now if these are the facts probably died in Adrain, Orleans County, New York State.

Col. Benedict Alford first married at Windsor, Connecticut, Aug. 9, 1744, Miss Jerusha Ashley, daughter of Joseph and Mary (? - Goodwin) Ashley. She was born in Hartford County, Connecticut, Jan. 20, 172 and died at Windsor, Connecticut, Jan. 18, 1760 in her 38th year.

He married for his second wife, at Windsor, Connecticut, Dec. 18, 1760, Miss Rebecca Owen Higley, daughter of Elijah and Hannah Higley. She was born at Turkey Hill, Hartford County, Connecticut, Nov. 6, 1735 and they resided at Windsor, Connecticut, until about 1772 or 5. Col. Benedict Alford had by his wives fourteen children. Eight children by his first wife and six by his second wife, as follows:

Their eldest child was a daughter who was named

Deidema Alford - she was born at Windsor, Connecticut, Jan. 13, 1745 - no other record

Their second child was a daughter who was named

Abigail Alford - she was born at Windsor, Connecticut, Oct. 23, 1746, died at Windsor, Connecticut, Jan. 16, 1747.

Their third child was a daughter who was named

Abigail Alford, 2nd - she was born at Windsor, Connecticut, Dec. 3, 1749 - no other record given.

Their fourth child was a daughter who was named Jerusha Alford - she was born at Windsor, Connecticut, Aug. 21, 1750 - no other record.

Their fifth child was a son who was named Capt. Alexander Alford - see next record.

Their sixth child was a daughter who was named Lucretia Alford - she was born at Windsor, Connecticut, Mar. 27, 1755, no other record.

Their seventh child was a son who was named Benedict Alford - see second record.

Their eighth child was a daughter who was named
 Anna Alford - she was born at Windsor, Connecticut, April 7, 1758 - no other record.

Their ninth child was a son who was named John Alford - he was born in Connecticut in 1761 - this name & no record is given in the Ancient Records at Windsor, Connecticut, as given as the Elder Brother of Rev.
 Oliver Alford, see on page 40 (original page #).

Their tenth child was a son who was named
 Capt. George Alford - see page 68(original page #) (full history)

Their eleventh child was a daughter who was named Rebecca Alford - she was born at Windsor, Connecticut, Nov. 18, 1764 - no other record.

Their twelfth child was a daughter who was named Rosetta Alford - she was born in Windsor, Connecticut, Nov. 81, 1765 - no other record.

Their thirteenth child was a son who was named
 Rev. Oliver Alford - see full record page 89 (original page #)

Their fourteenth child was a daughter who was named Cloen Clara Alford(Cable) - she was born at Windsor, Connecticut, Nov. 3, 1771. She married Mr. Stephen Cable at Florence near Three Rivers, Michigan. As ... in history of her brother Rev. Oliver Alford, page 59 (original page #)

Again it is entered in the Vermont Records that Benedict Alford, Sr. and Benedict Alford, Jr. entered land grants in 1787. That Benedict Alford, Sr. entered the land near Virginius, Adison County, Vermont. Now this land grant was probably made for his son, Rev. Oliver Alford on a visit to his son or at the marriage of his son which was in 1787. Where Rev. Oliver Alford's children were all born not to explain his youngest child as in 1813 he had moved to Ferrisburg, Addison County and where his youngest child was born. And in no other record does Col. Benedict Alford in name appears or even settled there - but probably remained with his son George in York County. As it is stated that Col. Benedict Alford was with his favorite son Capt George Alford and probably George had settled there - and all his children were born there with exception of Gen. George G. alford - son of Capt.
 George - who was born in Cayuga Lake near Ithica, Thompkins County, N. Y. in 1793, who after many years lieut of Artillery under Gen. Winfield Scott in 1813 & 14. Then in battles of Lundin Lane - ... In the Vermont War Records of the Revolutionary War appear these names - Alexander Alford - Benedict Alford and Amasia Alford and Ansel Alford sons of Samuel Alford and also Benjamin Alford who probably was the son of Amasa.

In 1793 Rev. Oliver Alford is mentioned as land owner and in 1823 to 1825 the power of attorney was granted to him by Const. Docket.

This probably will clear up much of the history of Col. Benedict Alford which has taken me the past 18 years of labor to obtain.

The next record is of the fifth child of Col. Benedict and Jerusha Alford who was named
Capt. Alexander Alford

He was born at Windsor, Hartford County, Connecticut, June 25, 1752 and died at Colchester, Chittenden County, Vermont, Aug. 13, 1836, at the age of 84 years. He married at Williamstown, Massachusetts, Aug. 27, 1782, Miss Elizabeth Lease. She was born 1764. They resided at Colchester, Vermont.

The United States Census of 1790 says "Head of family - had one male child over 16 years of age and three male children under 16 years and two female children. We certainly think this an error without Alexander Alford was previously married and his first wife had died. Probably this was the case - he was married first in 1773 and oldest child born 1774 would make son past 16.

He married Miss Elizabeth Lease, Aug. 27, 1782. Probably second wife - as no other record of wife now.

The next in line of record is the seventh child of Col. Benedict Alford, half-brother to above - who was named Benedict Alford, Jr.

He was the second son of Col. Benedict Alford. He was born at Windsor, Hartford County, Connecticut, Feb. 21, 1757. He was Vermont Revolutionary Soldier. In a letter received "that the pension records are very clear in these points" - "that he was born at Windsor, Connecticut, Feb. 21, 1757 and the pension records at Washington agrees in age exactly a very important fact and it also states that he was living and a resident of Rutland, Vermont in 1776 and of Williamstown, Massachusetts, 1780 (p.s. This was where his elder brother Alexander lived and where Alexander's oldest son was born) and the United States Army - states that he resided at Ferrisburg, Addison County, Vermont, 1790 and in 1826 he was at Orleans County, New York State where he applied for a pension (probably his sick mother resided there). In June 1835 he came with his son to Troy, Gauga County, Ohio where he died, Feb. 25, 1839, aged 82 years and his wife Huldah died Sept. 25, 1839, seven months after his death and Benedict, Jr. was the half-brother of Rev. Oliver Alford and Capt George Alford. If this is correct Benedict Alford, Jr. Revolutionary record appears as follows "Windsor, Connecticut, Feb. 1, 1776, 2 months - A. Pryor, Capt. - June, 1776, 6 mos. Jonathan Fasant(?), Capt. Samuel Safford, Col. April 1, 1777, 2 months, Simon Wright, Capt. James ..., Col., June 2, 1777, 6 months, Jeanu(?) Sawyer, Capt., Samuel Harriet, Col., Dec. 1777, 2 months-Sargent Commanding Prisoners - Col. G(?) - April 1778, 6 months, Minute Man, Simon Wright, Captain, Thomas Sawyer, Col., June 1880(sic), 1 month - Samuel Clark, Capt., Oct. 1780 1 month, ...These all from Vermont, see page 164 (original page #)

He married Miss Huldah - other name not given, about the year 1776. She died at Troy, Orange County, Ohio, 1839, aged 82 years.

Another ... record sent me was that United States ... at Ferrisburg, Vermont, in 1790 says - Benedict Alford head of family - had one male child over 16 & one male child under 16 and two female children. children. This probably correct if so they had nine children as follows
